

VALUES

CORE VALUES AND MOTIVATORS FOR LEADERSHIP ROLES

Report for: Martin Gallardo

ID: HL807514

Date: 7.09.2026

Introduction

The Leadership Forecast Values Report describes your core values and goals and how they can affect your career. Values are an essential part of your identity—they describe who you are, what you stand for, and the environments in which you will flourish. Values powerfully shape the choices that you will make about work, play, and relationships; they will impact your career in four ways.

1. Drivers: Your values are your key drivers—the things in life that motivate you. Values determine your aspirations and symbolize what you strive for and hope to attain. Your values define what you desire in your work and life.
2. Fit: Your values determine how well you will fit with any organizational culture. Organizational cultures typically reflect the values of senior management. People are happy and productive in cultures that are consistent with their values, and they are distressed and unhappy working in cultures defined by values that differ from their own.
3. Leadership Style and Culture: Your values reflect what you find rewarding and pay attention to or what you dislike and avoid. Thus, your values define the behavior that you like and reward and the behavior that you ignore or dislike. Consequently, your values shape the kind of culture that you, as a leader, will create for your staff and subordinates.
4. Unconscious Biases: Values influence the decisions you make—about people, projects, plans, and strategy. Values filter perceptions of experience, especially about what is desirable or undesirable, good or bad. Values typically operate outside conscious awareness and bias both thought and action.

Ways to Use this Information.

As you review this report, you may find that your values are inconsistent with your career or the demands placed on you by your role in your current organization. In addition, your day-to-day behavior may not help, and sometimes may even hinder, your ability to realize your career goals. You should not try to change your values if they don't fit with your career or organization. Rather, by becoming aware of your values and unconscious biases, you can begin to adapt your behavior in ways that will create a more productive working situation for yourself and your team.

This report is based on your scores on the Motives, Values, Preferences Inventory (MVPI). The report summarizes your key drivers, the kind of culture you will create as a leader, the organizational cultures that you will prefer (or should try to avoid), the factors that may unconsciously bias your decision making, and possible strategies for minimizing your biases and leading productively.

Ways to Use this Information.

The next page defines the ten MVPI scales and the following page presents a graphic representation of your values profile. This is followed by the report, which describes the meaning and implications of your score on each scale along the dimensions described above. Finally, the end of this report contains values-based development suggestions designed to help you to increase your leadership effectiveness. Please note that scores between the 65th and 100th percentile are considered high and represent goals towards which you strive on a daily basis. The higher the score, the more important a value or driver is to you in your work and personal life. Scores between the 36th and 64th percentile are average and represent values that are of mixed importance to you. In this range, you may find values that are pleasure points in your life or values where you are fairly indifferent. Scores between the 0 and 35th percentile are considered low and represent values that are not core drivers for you. The lower your score on a dimension in this report, the higher the likelihood that you are indifferent to that value.

High and low scores on every scale have important implications for careers.

The information in this report will help you better understand yourself and your values-driven tendencies. Armed with this information, you can capitalize on your strengths and minimize your tactical miscues. You can become more aware of the culture that you create and use this information to interact more successfully with others in your organization. In a competitive business environment, self-awareness and effective self-regulation are important assets that will allow you to become a more successful leader.

Definitions

The Leadership Forecast Values Report is based on your scores on the ten scales of the MVPI. Those scales are defined below.

RECOGNITION	Indifferent to Visibility vs. Wanting to be Noticed Seeking fame, appreciation, and acknowledgment. Low scorers are unconcerned about official attention; high scorers seek the spotlight.
POWER	Indifferent to Achievement/Competition vs. Being Perceived as Influential Driving to achieve results, control resources, and gain responsibility. Low scorers are willing to follow; high scorers want to take charge and make a difference.
HEDONISM	Serious and Self-disciplined vs. Fun Loving and Enjoyment Seeking Wanting fun, variety, and enjoyment in the workplace. Low scorers are restrained and self-disciplined; High scorers are fun-loving and want to enjoy work.
ALTRUISTIC	Valuing Self-Help vs. Wanting to Help the Others Wanting to help people who are struggling or in need. Low scorers believe in self-reliance; high scorers selflessly extend help to others.
AFFILIATION	Independent vs. Wanting Social Contact Seeking opportunities to build social networks and collaborate with people. Low scorers prefer to work alone; high scorers search for interaction and social acceptance.
TRADITION	Valuing Progress and Change vs. History and Convention Respecting structure, rules, and authority. Low scorers challenge the status quo and are open to change; high scorers respect hierarchy, authority, and the ways of the past.
SECURITY	Risk Tolerant vs. Risk Averse Wanting stability, structure, and order. Low scorers easily tolerate uncertainty and risk; high scorers value defined clarity and predictability.
COMMERCE	Indifferent to Financial Matters vs. Focused on Commercial Outcomes Seeking wealth and financial success. Low scorers have modest financial aspirations; high scorers pay close attention to financial matters.
AESTHETICS	Practical vs. Creative Creating work products with a focus on innovation, style, and appearance. Low scorers care about functionality; high scorers care about creative self-expression and the look and feel of their work.
SCIENCE	Intuitive vs. Analytical Preferring a rational, objective approach to decision-making. Low scorers prefer quick, intuitive decisions; high scorers prefer deliberate, data-based decisions.

LEADERSHIP VALUES PROFILE

Scales

RECOGNITION

Seeking fame, appreciation, and acknowledgment.

Drivers

You tend to be personally motivated by a desire to:

- Avoid being the center of attention
- Be left alone to get on with your work
- Seek peace and quiet in the work environment
- Be a "silent contributor"
- Be seen as modest and unassuming

Fit

You should be most comfortable working in environments that:

- Are calm and orderly
- Allow people to work independently
- Require limited team interactions and performance
- Avoid exuberant and noisy outbursts

And you tend to dislike environments that:

- Publicly celebrate individual effort
- Encourage self-display

Leadership Style and Culture

As a leader, the culture you create tends to:

- Be muted, restrained, and relatively peaceful
- Value people who work and keep their heads down
- Minimize needless meetings and interactions
- Provide few rewards and praise only superior performance
- Assume people work for the intrinsic reward of doing a good job

Unconscious Biases

You may not be aware of the following aspects of your leadership style:

- You may not notice when others want and need your attention
- You may assume that others know what you are thinking and, therefore, tend not to communicate
- You may make decisions without considering others' needs for recognition
- You tend to think public recognition of performance is a waste of time
- You tend to prefer formal, scripted situations to spontaneous environments

POWER

Driving to achieve results, control resources, and gain responsibility.

Drivers

You tend to be personally motivated by a desire to:

- Maintain predictability and order
 - Avoid confrontation and get along with others
 - Do the right thing by following orders
 - Seek smoothly running operations
 - Balance work with personal life
-

Fit

You should be most comfortable working in environments that:

- Feature well defined and standardized roles
- Emphasize cooperative and team-based work
- Value support roles
- Resemble public service agencies and governmental organizations

And you tend to dislike environments that:

- Pressure people to perform
 - Value competition over cooperation
-

Leadership Style and Culture

As a leader, the culture you create tends to:

- Emphasize formal procedures and rituals
 - Value good corporate citizenship
 - Ensure adherence to processes and rules
 - Maintain a democratic reward system
 - Reward collective or team effort
-

Unconscious Biases

You may not be aware of the following aspects of your leadership style:

- You may oppose quick or hasty decisions
 - You may disapprove of non-conformity
 - You may resist disruptive change or untested knowledge
 - You may try to preserve existing procedures
 - You tend to dislike people who are always trying to get ahead
-

HEDONISM

Wanting fun, variety, and enjoyment in the workplace.

Drivers

You tend to be personally motivated by a desire to:

- Complete work in a professional manner
 - Act socially appropriate
 - Minimize distractions in the workplace
 - Follow correct protocol when dealing with others
 - Follow precedents and standard procedures
-

Fit

You should be most comfortable working in environments that:

- Are structured, hierarchical, and formal
- Are disciplined and serious
- Value and respect doing the job right
- Require following precedent and standard operating procedures

And you tend to dislike environments that:

- Allow people to do their own thing
 - Offer too many opportunities for fun and “kidding around”
-

Leadership Style and Culture

As a leader, the culture you create tends to:

- Be formal, businesslike, and serious
 - Value standard procedures in approaching business problems
 - Be practical with minimal frivolity
 - Emphasize methods first and results second
 - Conform to existing organizational norms and procedures
-

Unconscious Biases

You may not be aware of the following aspects of your leadership style:

- You may tend to put business before pleasure
 - You may prefer that people respect the existing hierarchy
 - You may make decisions based on standard procedures and assumptions
 - You may tend to endorse traditional standards of business behavior
 - You may discourage excessive socializing at work
-

ALTRUISTIC

Wanting to help people who are struggling or in need.

Drivers

You tend to be personally motivated by a desire to:

- Persevere through tough times
- Deliver on assigned tasks
- Make decisions based on logic and facts, not sentimentality
- Be seen as independent and self-reliant
- Avoid hearing about other people's personal problems and issues

Fit

You should be most comfortable working in environments that:

- Cultivate a rational, task-oriented culture
- Minimize emotional displays
- Are metrics driven
- Emphasize taking personal responsibility

And you tend to dislike environments that:

- Seem sympathetic and coddle staff
- Value "morale" over productivity

Leadership Style and Culture

As a leader, the culture you create tends to:

- Emphasize objectivity and task orientation
- Demand results
- Reward self-reliance
- Minimize unnecessary discussion about morale
- Feature top-down leadership

Unconscious Biases

You may not be aware of the following aspects of your leadership style:

- You may evaluate people based on their performance and not their potential
- You may discourage discussions of how people feel about their jobs
- You may seem unconcerned about corporate social responsibility
- You tend to make decisions based on results, not feelings
- You may disapprove of people who don't try to solve their own problems before asking for help

AFFILIATION

Seeking opportunities to build social networks and collaborate with people.

Drivers

You tend to be personally motivated by a desire to:

- Build new relationships
 - Seek out positive social feedback from others
 - Work on a wide variety of tasks
 - Find occasions for networking
 - Work in a cooperative environment
-

Fit

You should be most comfortable working in environments that:

- Use a lot of team-based work
- Provide opportunities for frequent conversation and discussion
- Require a lot of client interaction
- Have frequent meetings

And you tend to dislike environments that:

- Require people to work by themselves
 - Seem cold, sterile, and isolated
-

Leadership Style and Culture

As a leader, the culture you create tends to:

- Be open and interactive
 - Feature team-based projects
 - Rely on group decision making
 - Encourage free-flowing communications
 - Discourage privacy
-

Unconscious Biases

You may not be aware of the following aspects of your leadership style:

- You may seek high-profile work assignments
 - You may disrupt others when they are working
 - You may seek consensus and prefer consensus building
 - You tend to distrust those who are always by themselves
 - You may bring people together who wouldn't normally collaborate
-

TRADITION

Respecting structure, rules, and authority.

Drivers

You tend to be personally motivated by a desire to:

- Question convention and authority
- Minimize external controls
- Seek novelty, change, and exploration
- Generate novel solutions to problems
- Pursue non-traditional work or careers

Fit

You should be most comfortable working in environments that:

- Are democratic and consultative
- Challenge, innovate, and experiment
- Tolerate diversity
- Encourage initiative

And you tend to dislike environments that:

- Are marked by authoritarian leadership
- Treat employees as expendable commodities

Leadership Style and Culture

As a leader, the culture you create tends to:

- Tend to be relaxed and informal
- Encourage spontaneity, openness, and initiative
- Value new ideas
- Seek interesting and novel projects
- Empower staff

Unconscious Biases

You may not be aware of the following aspects of your leadership style:

- You tend to challenge authority
- You may dislike setting expectations for others
- You tend to be concerned with finding new ways to do things
- You may make decisions that promote autonomy and self-direction
- You may make decisions that reduce hierarchy

SECURITY

Wanting stability, structure, and order.

Drivers

You tend to be personally motivated by a desire to:

- Find new challenges in life
- Have new experiences
- Be noticed by taking risks
- Explore novel ideas and new ways of doing things
- Test the ordinary limits

Fit

You should be most comfortable working in environments that:

- Make decisions and move on
- Are fun, exciting, and even edgy
- Recruit colleagues who like risk and challenge
- Encourage spontaneous decision making

And you tend to dislike environments that:

- Are routine and process-driven
- Discourage innovation and risk-taking

Leadership Style and Culture

As a leader, the culture you create tends to:

- Be experimental, lively, and bouncy
- Reward experimentation and risk taking
- Be flexible, quick, and nimble
- Have a bias toward action
- Be individualistic and sales oriented

Unconscious Biases

You may not be aware of the following aspects of your leadership style:

- You may see change per se as the answer to problems
- You may make decisions based more on instinct than facts
- You may choose intuitively appealing actions and projects
- You tend to dislike cautious or defensive decision making
- You may interpret data in a creative, non-literal manner

COMMERCE

Seeking wealth and financial success.

Drivers

You tend to be personally motivated by a desire to:

- Cooperate and not compete with others
- Be free to pursue your own interests
- Contribute without special recognition
- Seek work that is free from entanglements and obligations
- Avoid positions of authority

Fit

You should be most comfortable working in environments that:

- Are easy-going and informal
- Are noncompetitive and cooperative
- Take work-life balance seriously
- Are relaxed about financial goals

And you tend to dislike environments that:

- Create competition among contributors
- Are instrumental bureaucracies that stress accountability

Leadership Style and Culture

As a leader, the culture you create tends to:

- Favor flexible, self-directed work groups
- Emphasize laissez-faire leadership
- Believe in self-paced work
- Allow people to seek their own levels
- Assume that people do not need special incentives to be productive

Unconscious Biases

You may not be aware of the following aspects of your leadership style:

- You may make decisions based on people's needs and feelings
- You may be reluctant to hold people accountable or give direct orders
- You tend to avoid the spotlight
- You may pay attention to meeting personal obligations rather than financial gains
- You may underestimate the competition

AESTHETICS

Focusing on innovation, style, and appearance.

Drivers

You tend to be personally motivated by a desire to:

- Find ways to understand experience
- Seek creative solutions to problems
- Explore and share ideas and concepts
- Interpret sensations and experiences
- Create organizational myths

Fit

You should be most comfortable working in environments that:

- Encourage creativity and attention to appearances
- Value and support independent self-expression
- Periodically evaluate the business strategy
- Reward creativity, innovation, and unconventional thought

And you tend to dislike environments that:

- Are old-fashioned or conservative
- Emphasize procedures over understanding

Leadership Style and Culture

As a leader, the culture you create tends to:

- Value creativity, imagination, and thinking
- Enhance the look and feel of the workplace
- Emphasize the appearance and quality of product design
- Tolerate eccentricity
- Resist conventional business strategies

Unconscious Biases

You may not be aware of the following aspects of your leadership style:

- You tend to be influenced by what is stylish and in vogue
- You may be concerned about appearances and reputation
- You may be enthusiastic about impractical projects
- You tend to be suspicious of conventional beliefs
- You may support unproductive people because they are interesting

SCIENCE

Preferring a rational, objective approach to decision-making.

Drivers

You tend to be personally motivated by a desire to:

- Make decisions and move on
 - Pay attention to the practical realities of business and life
 - Be specific, concrete, and functional
 - Trust your gut feelings
 - Avoid becoming overwhelmed by complexity
-

Fit

You should be most comfortable working in environments that:

- Are pragmatic, practical, and grounded
- Emphasize action over contemplation
- Mistrust hypotheticals
- Focus on what can be done with the resources available

And you tend to dislike environments that:

- Require extensive data-based justification for decisions
 - Are prone to “paralysis by analysis”
-

Leadership Style and Culture

As a leader, the culture you create tends to:

- Prefer quick and intuitive decision making
 - Favor action over reflection
 - Be practical and tactical
 - Avoid endless discussions of possible solutions
 - Be impatient with data-based decision making
-

Unconscious Biases

You may not be aware of the following aspects of your leadership style:

- You tend to be impatient with hypothetical problems
 - You may be impatient with overly careful decision-making
 - You may value intuition to solve most problems
 - You tend to emphasize the tactical over the strategic
 - You may desire clarity and simplicity
-

Development Opportunities

RECOGNITION

- As a result of your score on the Recognition scale, your effectiveness as a leader may be enhanced if you:
- Recognize that others need "pats on the back" more than you do
- Take an active interest in the performance of your staff; ask them for progress reports and tell them when they are doing good work
- Outline explicitly your expectations for your team and each member of your staff

POWER

- Set priorities for accomplishment and productivity
- Be sure to hold your staff accountable for meeting your expectations
- Encourage your staff to take initiative in solving problems at work
- Keep people informed regarding your team's accomplishments

HEDONISM

- Recognize that your subordinates may need to relax from time to time
- Allow your subordinates to find their own balance between work and life
- Remember that rules and procedures are guidelines—not ends in themselves
- Remember that your staff may be more creative when you are flexible

ALTRUISTIC

- Remember that you can be interpersonally sensitive and still get results
- Periodically ask your staff how to help them enhance their productivity
- Pay attention to staff morale; it impacts performance
- Be sure your staff knows that they don't always have to agree with you

AFFILIATION

- Hold subordinates accountable for completing their own work
- Recognize that frequent meetings may distract many staff members
- Offer subordinates a chance to reflect on sudden changes or demands
- Take charge and make decisions when team consensus is not possible

Development Opportunities

TRADITION

- Remember that some people like and need rules
- Show respect for company expectations by staying on schedule for your performance goals
- Remember that not all of your subordinates will be self-motivated; give them clear direction and guidance
- Give your staff specific feedback regarding success and areas for improvement

SECURITY

- Try to understand the reasons behind current practices before changing them
- Recognize that your ideas may threaten some people
- Be sure that your staff supports your new ideas
- Be careful not to make decisions that are inconsistent with the organization's goals

COMMERCE

- Self-consciously identify clear goals for your team
- Give your staff direction—this will help them feel more productive
- Think and talk about the “competitive landscape” confronting your business
- Seek input from your staff on how best to motivate them

AESTHETICS

- Think about how your current work fits with long-term organizational goals
- Provide your staff with clear goals and performance targets
- Don't let emotions interfere with your decisions about staffing and procedures
- Don't let your curiosity interfere with the search for practical solutions

SCIENCE

- Stay up to date with the innovations in your industry
- Challenge the traditional assumptions guiding your business
- Ask your staff to provide data to support their ideas and recommendations
- Find objective ways to evaluate the productivity of your team

Scales

Subscale Scores

Recognition

Power

Hedonism

Altruistic

Affiliation

Tradition

Security

Commerce

Aesthetics

Science

